Aaron Joseph Moore Stovall

on the age of eighteen, Aaron Joseph Moore Stovall had all started his freshman 12 months at Xavier collage of Louisiana. He had attended a number of days of sessions in university while the ordinary disaster, typhoon Katrina hit New Orleans. a number of weeks ahead of attending college, Aaron via our church actions participated in a day retreat entitled, "An come upon with God." even supposing typhoon Katrina catapulted Aaron into overwhelming events, we think our church retreat ready him spiritually to head via this awful catastrophe. Aaron stated, "I owe my existence to the Lord " The event of dwelling within the dorm after the storm hit was once worse than a terrible nightmare. there has been no electricity, no water to take showers or to flush the toilets, and the noxious odor of sewage and fuel was once overwhelming. the serious warmth and humidity made him believe as if he used to be suffocating. Aaron had heard on tv approximately traditional mess ups killing humans during this country and different countries. Now, he was once experiencing first hand a tribulation with one of many worst hurricanes within the historical past of this country. his existence actually flashed earlier than him. at the 6th day, males in boats evacuated Aaron and the opposite scholars from the dorms and transported them to a road overpass. There every thing appeared like a frightening motion picture while the realm ended and some humans survived. Aaron used to be succumbing to depression and feeling hopeless till Reverend Jesse Jackson drove up in his motor vehicle and prayed. This unimaginable adventure gave him a unique outlook on life. In September of 2005, after days of being evacuated from New Orleans, Louisiana, Aaron transferred to Morehouse collage in Atlanta, GA. he's very thankful for thekindness and aid of the workers and scholars at Morehouse College. "We provide because of the Lord and proclaim His greatness to the total world" Psalm 105: 1 (revised) Dr. Joyce M. Stovall Aaron's mom
